

Huihua Chiang BS, MS, PhD

National Yang Ming University
Taiwan

Prof. Huihua Chiang, received BSEE from National Tsing Hua University, Taiwan, MSEE and PhD EE, from Georgia Institute of Technology, USA. He has served as the Chairman of the BME Department, National Yang Ming University, 2000-2003. He also served as the Convener of the Biomedical Engineering Group, the National Science Council, Taiwan, 2010-2012.

He is serving as the Director of the Biomedical Engineering Research and Development Center, National Yang Ming University. He is also acting as the Principle Investigator of the SPARK Anchor University Project in Yang Ming University.

He has actively engaged in medical device developments, including high frequency medical ultrasound needle transducers, optical spectroscopic device, and small animal ultrasound + fluorescence tomographic imaging device developments.