

Ching-Hua Hsiao

Taiwan Maternal Fetal Medicine Society
Taiwan

Ching Hua Hsiao, currently is President of Taiwan Maternal Fetal Medicine Society and serves as consultant of obstetrics and gynecology department, Taipei City Hospital Women and Children campus.

Dr. Ching Hua Hsiao received his medical degree in University of Chang Gang Memorial in 1996. Dr. Hsiao served his internship of Chang Gang Memorial Hospital and residency in Taiwan Adventist Hospital. He studied the fetal medicine field at Harris Birthright Research Centre, King's College Hospital in London. After graduate medical engineering PhD degree of National Yang Ming University, he also becomes the department assistant professor. He is now the director of the ultrasound department, Taipei City Hospital, Women and Children Campus. He was appointed President and the head of the prenatal diagnosis committee of Taiwan Maternal Fetal Medicine Society in 2016. He is also a member of the International Society Ultrasound in Obstetrics and Gynecology and International Society for Prenatal Diagnosis.

Research interests include Prenatal Diagnosis, Fetal Medicine and Surgery, and ultrasound in Obstetrics. To improve the aneuploidy screening quality in Taiwan, he endeavored in the first trimester screening and maternal fetal medicine field.