I did my medical education at the Medical College of National Taiwan University in Taiwan, graduating in 1999 with Taiwan medical certification in Emergency Medicine and pediatrics. In 2006 I did a 2-year of fellowship in Pediatric Cardiology in National Taiwan University Hospital(NTUH), Taiwan. I returned to NTUH as the attending physician of Department of Emergency Medicine, NTUH. From 2004-2005, I started my ultrasound fellowship in Department of Emergency Medicine at National Taiwan University Hospital(NTUH) and since have continued my clinical and research work in Pediatric Emergency Medicine and Ultrasound at the NTUH.

I have written many articles and given lectures around Taiwan. I serve on committees of many ultrasound, pediatric emergency, medical, non-medical and government organizations.
